CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—St. Peter's, Rome, can accommodate 54,000 worshippers and St. Paul's, London, 32,000.

—The Cincinnati M. E. conference voted unanimously in favor of admitting women as delegates to the general conference.

—Rev. S. M. Logan's meeting at Beards, Harrison county, had resulted in five additions to Saturday. It will be continued by Rev. J. H. Hepper.

—The meeting at Goshen conducted by Elds. W. L. Williams and J. G. Livingston closed Sunday with 27 additions and a general awakening of the members.

—Rev. Edward B. Ledyard, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Danville, is dead. He was taken sick shortly after coming to Danville from Steubenville, O., last Spring, and grew gradually worse.

—The Salvation Army has now reached its 2,000th commanding officer and the enrolment of its 5,000th auxiliary, with an attendance of upward of a million per month, or nearly 16,000,000 at its meetings per annum.

—William Haywood, of Athens, Ga., who was struck dumb while cursing God and religion, has recovered his power of speech. He prayed for forgiveness two whole days when he suddenly arose and began to speak, his first words being a confession of religion. He says he will now preach the gospel he blasphemed.

—Rev. S. M. Logan returned Saturday from Beards where he has been holding a two weeks' meeting, and filled his pulpit as usual on Sunday morning. The sweetness and solemnity of the service were greatly enhanced by a lovely solo by Mr. J. V. Logan, Jr., his younger brother. The old hymn, "One sweetly solemn thought," by Phoebe Carey seemed fraught with deeper meaning, brought out by his baritone voice, and the whole congregation were attentive listeners to the unusual treat in music.

OF A LOCAL NATURE.

—The Danville post-office has been allowed $200 additional for clerk's hire.

—A new oil well has been discovered on Beaver creek, near Monticello, which produces 50 barrels daily.

—John and Charles Phelps were killed and Irvine Fletcher was fatally scalded by the explosion of the boiler at Walter Elrod's saw mill in Pulaski county.

—The Somerset fair, which begins today will, as usual, draw a large crowd from Stanford. Notwithstanding the association gives more liberal premiums than usual it has cut the admission fee to 25 cents.

—Warren Larue Thomas, of Mayesville, was elected Grand Master of the Knights Templar by the Triennial convocation at Boston. Pittsburg was chosen as the place for the next convocation.

—Randall Litsey, of Harrodsburg, seems destined to break into the penitentiary for forging names to bogus pedigrees of Jersey cattle. There are 13 cases against him. He waived examination and was held in $2,000 bail.

—Mr. F. M. Lutes, of Van Alstyne, Texas, writes in remitting for his subscription for another year, that the Interior Journal is in great demand among the Kentuckians there who come to his store to read it. Our friend will confer a favor by not lending it, but suggesting that for $2 they can get 104 copies a year.

Is Kentucky a Doubtful State?

The peculiar political conditions that exist in Kentucky have led many people to believe that the State is a doubtful one and that the republicans have a chance to carry it this fall. For this reason there is great interest both at home and abroad, in accurate and reliable political news from all parts of the State. The Weekly Courier Journal is now covering this field perfectly and it is publishing the news without bias or prejudice. A close reader of the Weekly Courier Journal should be able to forecast in advance what will be the outcome of the State election next November. In addition to giving all the political news and all the news of every kind, the Weekly Courier Journal is offering to its subscribers $6,000 in cash presents for guesses as to the exact vote and closest to the exact vote that will be received by the democratic, republican and populist candidates for governor of Kentucky. The price of the paper is only $1 a year. Sample copies containing full details of the cash present plan will be sent free to any address. Write to Courier Journal Company, Louisville, Ky.

—J. W. Leap was struck by lightning and killed in Henry county.

LANCASTER, CARRARD COUNTY.

—Died at her home a few miles of Lancaster, Mrs. Susie Henry.

—The jury in Nunn's trial failed to agree upon a verdict after being out 24 hours. Several were for hanging.

—There was a hop or dance at W. A. Hiatt's one night last week in honor of Misses Turley, Adams and Walker.

—Little Johnnie Turner, the son of Mr. T. B. Turner, was thrown from a horse on Thursday and kicked, but not seriously.

—Miss Dove Harris entertained Tuesday evening at her home on Richmond street in honor of Miss Ethyl Beasley, of Stanford, and Miss Kate Craig, of Louisiana.

—Mrs. L. F. Hubble entertained some friends at tea last Tuesday evening; a tempting repast was spread and the remainder of the evening was spent in convivial intercourse.

—Little Miss Laura Bright Doty gave a doll party last week to a number of her friends. The little girls seemed especially happy with their dolls all arrayed in their finest clothes.

—Mrs. Mary Cunningham is having the foundation laid for a new two-story frame dwelling. The site will be upon a portion of the lot adjoining her present residence upon Depot street.

—John Westley East bought a horse of Wm. Browning at $35. R. L. Burton sold a nice harness horse to Asa Jewell for $100. The Gentry Bros. bought of J. M. Saunders a good saddle horse for $100.

—Miss Lula M. Batson leaves tomorrow for Greensboro, N. C., to again assume control of the music department of one of the leading colleges in that place. This is the third term she has held the position.

—Mr. J. S. Johnson, of Marksburg, threshed 150 bushels of clover seed from 65 acres of land after grazing 55 acres of it and cutting a good crop of hay from the other 10 acres realizing $1,000 for this amount of labor. It seems as if farming continues to pay if much industry is put upon it, notwithstanding many think to the contrary.

—Dr. J. L. McKee will begin a protracted meeting at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. The following gentlemen have been selected to act as ushers during the series of meetings: Mr. R. H. Kinnaird, Dr. H. M. Grant; Messrs. Horace Herndon, Robert Henry, Randolph Harris and Charles Harper.

—Mrs. F. L. Austin, whose artistic skill in exquisite needle-work have long ago won her quite a reputation, recently sold a lace handkerchief, a very fine piece of work, of hers, to a party in St. Louis for $75. Together with a number of premiums she has won at several fairs she has realized $100 for this handkerchief.

—The party given Friday night by the young men of the "Junior Social Club" was a pronounced success, notwithstanding the clouds were very lowering about the time the guests began to assemble. Capt. Herndon's large and inviting lawn was brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns and the crowd was mostly entertained out of doors, the tables being set there and guests served to refreshment in the open air. The young ladies all bedecked in party costumes fitting hither and thither with their brilliant beaux presented an enchanting sight to beholders.

—Miss Pattie Beasley has returned from a protracted visit to friends in Lexington, Georgetown and Jessamine county. Dr. W. S. Elkin, of Atlanta, has joined his wife here and will make his mother, Mrs. Mary Elkin, a visit before his return home. Mr. G. T. Higginbotham, of Lexington, was visiting his brother, Mr. John M. Higginbotham, last week. Misses Nannie Sweeney and Bettie Robinson left Saturday to visit their aunt, Mrs. C. M. Richardson, at Somerset. Misses Marie and Jennie Warren, of Stanford, are visiting their aunt, Miss Jennie Duncan. Miss Delbie Batson left Sunday afternoon for New Boston, Va., where she has a position as music teacher in the school. Misses Alice Fox Young and Carrie Woods both leave this week to enter the Conservatory of Music at Cincinnati. Miss Kate Craig has returned to her home at New Liberia, La. F. D. Gaines and wife, of Danville, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Curry. Mrs. J. O. Hemphill and little daughter are visiting friends in Nicholasville and Lexington. Miss Bessie Brewer, of Lebanon, has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. O. T. Layton. Miss Lena Newman, of Louisville, is visiting her cousin, Miss Johnetta Armstrong.

LATE HOURS.—The worst that can befall a boy is to have the liberty to stay out late at night. This is too often a fatal privilege, because it is mostly during the hours of night that all the mischief is planned and executed. The boys who are permitted the freedom of the public streets at all hours of the night are the boys who fill our penitentiaries and workhouses, and bring sorrow upon their relatives and friends. All parents should keep their boys off the street and at home of nights.

—Defender won the yacht race from the Vigilant.

KIDD'S STORE.

—W. J. Bohon and family, of Danville were visiting relatives at this town last week.

—The democrats here prefer a coin-skin and twist tobacco currency under Wat Hardin's administration to a gold, silver or bimetallic currency under William O.

—John Allen, of our Stringtown suburb, the best president of a free mud road in the world, got in last week with two car loads of feeders, the pick of the two counties.

—Preston Torpin, a native of these classic knobs and woods, has resolved to suppress the inordinate love of birth place, so pronounced in us pennyroyal products, and cast his lot with the Egyptians of aesthetic "E-lynoy."

The democrats of this neck have a been keeping tab on the joint discussions of Wat and Billy O.—and are not a bit surprised that the republican hippodrome has been forced to hollow, "On! enough!" and "quit!"—as Molly McCarty did on the home stretch of the 34 mile in '76.

—The Liberty fair was a howling success and only those who had a tip on the wrong horse in scrub race revert to the occasion with regrets. "Polk Badget" was there in a new disguise. The managers never had a doubt of a sure thing and kindly (?) let a favored few in on the ground floor. It was their game to let the favorite win the first heat, which would greatly augment the crop of suckers. The favored (?) clamored for bets on "Badget" after the first heat, placed all their money without difficulty and the favorite came in under the string first in a walk. A round-trip ticket saved many from a walk home.

"GATH" says that Secretary Browning once told him that he paid out $50,000 from his own pocket to maintain appearances while he was a cabinet officer. And this was in Lincoln's time, before the era of extravagance in official life in Washington.

The Liberty Fair and Other Affairs.

Last week was probably the liveliest the good, quiet town of Liberty ever experienced. It was fair week and the capital of "the State of Casey" had on her gayest garb. People were there from North, South, East and West and her hospitable citizens entertained them in royal style. The belles and beaux of several counties were also there and it was necessary to have parties, hops and the like for their pleasure and of course they had them.

The fair was a decided success in every way except financially. The liberal premiums brought a splendid lot of horses from a half dozen counties and it took a mighty good horse to wear the "slick tie." While the crowds were good each day, that of Thursday was the largest, over 3,000 tickets being sold. Splendid order was preserved and everything passed off like clock work.

The trots were interesting each day. The Casey county trot Friday was won in straight heats by J. H. Allen & Bro's Sentinel, with Charley Bowman's Grady Wilkes second and Hamp May's Sul-march third. The best time was 2:28, which considering the track, was good. The 240 trot on Thursday was won by a green mare owned by H. H. McAninch.

The bicycle race on Thursday was one of the big drawing cards. There were seven starters and James McWhorter, of Casey, was a big favorite. It wasn't a day for favorites, however, and Mr. McW. could do no better than come third. Messrs. Noonan and Cassell, of Burgin, were first and second. The distance of five miles was covered in 13 minutes.

As usual Lincoln county was represented in the show of stock. Messrs. J. K. Baughman, J. W. Allen, W. L. Evans, W. S. Drye, E. P. Carpenter, S. M. Owens, E. B. Kennedy and F. B. Twidwell had horses there and each of them brought away one or more premiums. Messrs. Carpenter and Evans being particularly successful.

The baby show was last on the program and the mothers and others interested became rather impatient before it was reached. There were five entries, and five little beauties they were. The judges took at least a half hour to decide and finally gave the premium to the little child of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rynearson, and the certificate to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilkinson's little son. There was some dissatisfaction, of course, and then were those who thought the premiums should have been reversed. Both were beautiful children though and as good a judge of children as the writer thinks he is, would have had some trouble in placing the strings.

The fancy turnout ring had four entries and all of them were creditable ones. Doc Drye, who drove J. W. Allen's turnout, won hands down with Virgil Coleman, of Middleburg, second. Ed White, of this county, had a fine horse and buggy, but did not have enough ribbons to win.

A Casey county man was heard to remark that Lincoln county was almost as well represented at the fair as Casey was. Stanford people were there by the score, while the West End sent down an immense delegation.

The Commercial Bank of Liberty is under good headway and the officers and directors of it are sanguine of success. On the morning of the sixth after its opening the deposits amounted to $15,000 and the loans to over $8,000. There is a big demand for money and Cashier G. A. Prewitt thinks he can place safely every cent the bank can spare. One of the depositors brought in $2,000 in gold the other day that he had been keeping in his safe for several years.

Mr. J. W. Whipp, whose safe was opened and $900 in cash taken from it a few weeks ago, thinks he has a clue to the guilty party and will spare neither time nor means in his effort to bring him to justice. Before the bank was started at Liberty a great deal of money was kept in the various safes in town and it is said that frequently the one belonging to R. T. Pierce would contain such large sums as $10,000, $15,000 and $20,000.

Like Lincoln county Casey has a fine corn crop. Other crops are also good and the people are feeling good over the prospects. The democrats are in fine spirits and are satisfied that they will be a winner this year both in the State and legislative races. Mr. T. J. Baldock, the democratic nominee, will carry Casey by 250 and Russell by a good majority and unless things take a wonderful turn good old Bro. Grider, who wants to go to the legislature, will be wondering "where he is at" and ought to feel like kicking himself all over for trying to swap the pulpit for a seat in the general assembly.

—In a certain grave yard was erected a stone to the memory of a sister as follows: "Sarah Hackett. Lord, she was thine." Some wag who knew the lady thought she would better be described by chipping off the e of the last word and now the inscription reads "Sarah Hackett. Lord, she was thine."

W. P. WALTON.

The joint debates between Gen. Hardin and Col. Bradley are off and the republican candidate's name is Dennis. Because of some disorder when he began to speak at Eminence, the extent of which is variously estimated, by most people, however, that there was no more than is usual at open air meetings, Col. Bradley declined after several attempts to proceed and gathering up his papers left the stand, after saying he wished he had the voice to tell the crowd how great was his contempt for it. If Col. Bradley really felt that it was a prearranged attempt to prevent him from speaking, he had excuse for his action, though many who were present say it was an exhibition of petulance, of which a public speaker should not be guilty, but the cutting off of the rest of the debates, by the republican committee, before whom the colonel went and laid his grievance, is entirely untenable. Granting that the Henry county audience did apparently treat him discourteously, but there is no reason to believe that if it did it was intentional, there were no grounds to believe that it would be repeated at the other places agreed upon to debate. In fact Col. Bradley had every reason to think that in his own country at least he would be treated with the greatest courtesy. He had passed without insult through the hot bed of free silver fanaticism and was about to enter a section that was with him, at least on one issue, that of the currency. It therefore looks like the matter was seized upon as an excuse to end the debates, in which the republican candidate had hardly held his own since his triumph at Louisville, and for the further reason that the meetings were creating a widespread interest which was sure to bring out the full democratic vote, in which event republicanism stands no more show in Kentucky than a snow ball does in hades. Their only show is in the still hunt and they know it. Mr. Norman, on the part of the committee, refused to cancel the contract for the debates, and announced that the democratic candidate would be on hand at each place named. He was at Covington Saturday night and was accorded an ovation. The republicans were downhearted and some of them expressed themselves very freely in regard to Col. Bradley's action. The last hope of the republicans has gone glimmering and the only question now is "How large will be Gen. Hardin's majority?"

The harmony address is out at last and is written in good spirit, but not more so than hundreds of editorials in democratic newspapers all over the State, by men who have the interests of the party as much at heart, and who recognize that this is a fight to the death against republicanism. The meat of the address is in this appeal:

"Whatever opinions you may hold as to economic questions, whatever differences there may exist relative thereto, we earnestly and sincerely ask you to lay them on the altar of the party, for its safety and success, and unite in one great effort to defeat the republican party and its nominees."

We are sure that every true democrat, who loves his party and desires it success had already made up his mind to stand by his colors. We may not concur in Gen. Hardin's construction of the platform and may not agree with some of his other opinions, but when the alternative presents itself of voting for a democrat or aiding in the transfer of the State administration to the republicans, no man worthy of membership in the great party of the people can hesitate a moment. Democratic officials for nearly 30 years have given the State a clean and conservative administration, marred only by the rascality of one man, most of whose stealings have been made good to the Commonwealth. No State under republican control can make so creditable a showing, while in the Southern States, wherever the republicans have been in power, the result has been most disastrous to good government and prosperity. A knowledge of the experience of those States should put every true lover of Kentucky, to say nothing of his love for party, on his guard to do battle against the overthrow of the present peaceful and prosperous condition of governmental affairs. The defeat of the republicans by a decisive majority this time will cure them of their arrogance and put a quietus on their marauding ambitions for years to come. Let every democrat buckle on his armor and from now till the November election leave no post unguarded against the insidious attacks of the foe, whose success means bad government, and perhaps negro equality and mixed schools.

SENATOR BLACKBURN told the Woodford Sun: "My election is assured, unless we have a republican Legislature, which is not likely to happen." He claims to have more pledges than McCreary and Buckner combined. The Senator is doubtless talking through his hat and for effect. The facts and figures do not bear him out in his statement. He has been honored fully up to his deserts, as great as they are, and we believe the democracy intends to give him a rest. It should at any rate.

MAJ. NORMAN, chairman of the democratic campaign committee, is hot in the collar over the pretext, as he calls it, seized upon by Col. Bradley and his committee to break off the debates because of the colonel's unwillingness to proceed with the discussion, and has written the republican campaign committee that it should have the candor to give the real reason that actuates it, assuring the members that "their candidate will not be permitted to indulge in his peculiar style of conducting a campaign without finding Mr. Hardin, or some other loyal and true democrat, ready and willing to meet him whenever the opportunity is afforded from now until the close of the polls in November next." Bully for Luke. He doesn't wait to be asked to give up the gun, but shoots early, often and effectively.

The decoration of buildings in Louisville has already begun for the G. A. R. encampment next week. The Columbia building will be decorated at a cost of $5,000 and the Courier-Journal will have 600 colored electric lights arranged in a G. A. R. badge design over the statue of George D. Prentice, whose pen did such valiant service for the Union. Other buildings will be liberally decorated and many private houses also. The line of march has been arranged and the distance fixed at 2 1/2 miles, as it is thought that many of the veterans can not stand more than that.

The New York World is wasting time and space in proving that a third term for president is against tradition, against popular sentiment and against public policy. The articles are written presumably for the benefit of Mr. Cleveland, who we take it, has no more desire for a third term than the people have to give it to him, which they do not intend to do.

MT. VERNON is plagued with fleas, but Editor Smith finds time between bites to write red hot democratic editorials, urging democrats not to falter now, but march shoulder to shoulder for this is the time of all times in Kentucky's history when "he who dallies is a dastard, and he who doubts is damned."

This is how the Cincinnati Enquirer's head lines tell of Bradley's bad break. Boo-hoo! I won't speak at all. Then Bradley ducked his little nut, Nor stayed for praise or blame; While the people stood aghast at what Seemed to all a baby game.

Rev. W. E. Ellis' Farewell.

The Christian church was packed Sunday to hear the last sermon of Rev. W. E. Ellis, who for three years and eight months has been its beloved pastor and labored for its upbuilding in season and out. After petitioning the Throne of Grace in a prayer that must have touched even the stoniest heart present, he announced John 15:14 as his text: "Ye are my friends, if you do what I command you," from which he preached a sermon that was as eloquent of utterance as it was excellent in taste. He showed that apparently the best of earthly friends often prove false and desert us for the flimsiest reasons and when we most need them. Not so with that Heavenly Friend, upon whom we can always rely and who sticketh closer than a brother. He urged the members to live so as to deserve this friendship and appealed in touching terms to those out of the church to accept it to-day. One young lady, Miss Sallie Givens, came forward and was baptized at the close of the service. In referring to the fact that this was perhaps the last sermon he would ever preach from that pulpit, his voice grew husky and he could hardly suppress his emotion. Fearing that he might break down and be unable to state the causes that led to his resignation, Mr. Ellis prepared the following statement and read it to the congregation and as he did so hundreds of eyes, many unused to weeping, filled with tears. It was a sad and solemn occasion and if any had wronged him it should have moved him to an honest confession and apology before God and man:

On the 6th day of July there was a call meeting held in this house. At that meeting a committee of three was appointed consisting of W. M. Bright, J. W. Hayden and T. J. Foster, who were instructed to confer with your minister as to the deficit in salary and to devise means by which to liquidate this indebtedness. This committee called upon your preacher and tried to effect arrangements for reduction in salary or a remittance to be made by the preacher to the church. Since this arrangement could not be effected the committee then requested the minister to resign, to take effect on the 1st day of September, but forbade him making it known to the church, yet claiming the authority of the church for such action. This resignation was made to the committee on the same day, July 20th, and also to two of the elders one week later.

In compliance with the request of the committee and with a desire to be submissive to the elders, this resignation has been withheld from the church until to-day. This being the day upon which it is to take effect I feel it my duty to make this public statement to the church, severing a relationship of three years and eight months, the greater portion of which time has been the happiest period of my life.

I want to thank my many friends here for their kindness to me and for their support of my ministry, and more especially the young people, for "these are my crown and joy." Ah, when a minister of Christ sees an army of young converts and listens to the first utterances of their new born love, his bosom swells with joy and his heart is filled with peace. The crowning mercy of my ministry here is the joy of seeing the young men stand for Jesus and the sweet sunshine of their presence will never depart from the pathway of my life. As long as I live the prosaic old town of Stanford will have a sacred place in my memory and I shall never pass through it without waving a benediction from the passing train because of the many friends that I leave within its bounds.

My memory goes back this morning to that cold Sunday morning in January when my ministry began with you. Since that time many of the noble band have crossed the river and are resting under the shade of the trees, among the white-robed that now behold their risen Lord in glory. Among them him who was for seven years your beloved pastor, John Bell Gibson, who fell upon the battle field and whose voice is silent forevermore until that day when it shall break forth in glad hallelujahs around the Throne of God. Others too have passed over, among them Sister Katharine A. Baughman, Mrs. Alice Baughman, Mrs. Mollie Hocker, Miss Mary Chrisman, S. W. Givens, J. L. Dawson and many more whom I recall, too numerous to mention, from the infants to the aged.

Gone to that eternal home, where sooner or later, we shall all stand in judgment. These are among the closest ties that bind us together: The chairs at your fireside, the couches in your sick chamber, and even the coffin lid that has borne away your precious dead. These sacred ties with their clinging tendrils will linger about my heart till God shall call me hence.

As to what I have preached you know "I have not shunned to declare the whole counsel of God." I have condemned what I conceived to be wrong even when it was in direct opposition to my very best friends. Looking my pastor squarely in the face I believe I can safely say I have been no man's man. I have never courted the rich, nor willfully neglected the poor, I have never turned the "sword of the spirit" to prevent it from cutting your consciences or kept back a truth that would save a soul.

The interest of this church has been uppermost in my mind. Every invitation from another church—and I have had several attractive ones—every one has been declined. I love this church. My earnest prayer is that God may soon direct you to the right man to be your minister, to the one who can unite all hearts and hands to carry forward the high and holy mission of the Church of God. Let me beseech you never to break the ranks. Let me beg you to stand for the right and close to your church. You are strong in the protection of that great Shepherd who never will forsake you. I entrust you as much as I love you not to sadden my life or break my heart by ever deserting these walls or letting the fire of devotion and zeal cease to burn upon these altars.

When I leave this sacred desk to-day this will no longer be my pulpit. I give it back before God into your hands. To-day the last page is written in the record of a few bright, happy days in the service of God among you. What is written is written. Let us fold up the book and put it away with all its many faults. And it can not lose its fragrance, "while between its leaves are the pressed flowers of the love of the purest and best hearts of this church."

When my closing eyes shall gaze upon this record for the last time I hope to discover there only one name—the name that is above every name—the name of Him whose glory crowns this sacred day with radiant splendor, the name of Jesus Christ, King of Kings and Lord of Lords. And let my last words uttered in this sacred spot be unto Him that loves us and saves us from sin with His precious blood, and unto God be all the praise and thanks and dominion and glory, forever and ever, amen.

When Mr. Ellis completed the reading of the statement, which is conceded to be a most mild and and christian-like recital of the troubles that led up to his resignation, there was hardly a dry eye in the audience and had a vote been taken to refuse to let him go, it would have been practically unanimous. He has done a great work for the church and it will bet many a long year, if ever, before his place can be filled by a man who combines the christian virtues and commands the love and respect of the public as does Mr. Ellis. Every body has confidence in him and he is loved by the outsiders almost as much as by the members. He and his excellent wife will leave Saturday for Memphis where he will have charge of the best church there at a large salary, and they will take with them the good wishes of the best people of all denominations and beliefs, coupled with the prayer, that God will be with them now and always.

THOUGH an assassination pure and simple was shown, four jurors said that Shelby Nunn ought to be acquitted for the slaying of Wm. Best. Seven were for murder and one for manslaughter. The trial lasted from Tuesday till Saturday and on discharging the jury Judge Sauley remanded the prisoner to jail without bail.

TYPE WRITING.—Those who wish type writing neatly and speedily done can be accommodated by calling on Miss Callie Horton, who is also a capable stenographer. She can be found in the office of Miss Kate Blain, superintendent of schools, at the usual hours. Her charges are reasonable and she will do anything from writing a letter to a lawyer's brief.

THE Louisville Times quotes Col. W. G. Welch as follows: "Hardin has acted a fool ever since he attended that Owensboro convention; nevertheless, as the party nominee, he deserves and should have democracy's support. I am a gold bug of the first water, but I intend to vote for Wat, inasmuch as the governor of Kentucky hasn't any more to do with the currency question than a Pulaski rattlesnake. The democratic party of this State represents the intellect, good society and wealth of Kentucky."

The colonel says he has not been interviewed, though in the main the sentiment is his.

IN PRISON AS A WITNESS.—Mr. Robert Breckinridge, son of Judge R. J. Breckinridge, of Danville, is held in durance in Guatemala, Central America, as a witness against one Goff, who is charged with murdering Cashier Brooks, whose body was found in the vault of the bank at Livingston. Goff and Breckinridge lived in the building and Breckinridge's pistol was found by the side of the murdered man. Mr. B. can prove that the pistol was stolen from him and that he is in entire ignorance of the murder. So he spends his time, he writes, "in alternately cursing the country, people, laws, government and authorities for detaining him."

THE Blue Grass Blade charges that Elder C. K. Marshall, of Harrodsburg, gambled for cigars with a slot machine at Lexington, and beat the contrivance, but the Democrat says that the preacher only smoked after another man had won the cigars. Speaking of cigars, a minister of a hospitable turn, took one of the Pharisaical order down, not a hundred miles from here, recently. He drew a case of cigars from his pocket after dinner and passed them around, all accepted the courtesy except the one referred to, who declined, saying, "I am a Christian and don't smoke." "I wouldn't either," said the man with ease with withering effect, "if I had no other way of showing it."

GOT OFF WITH HIS LIFE.—At the examining trial of Arnold Steinkner, who in a fit of drunken passion set fire to and burned his own house to spite his wife and step daughters, he was discharged, the court and its attorney holding that under the statutes it is not an offense for a man to burn his own house, arson being defined as the burning of the house of another. The family wanted to have the whole case dismissed against the old man, but he was fined one cent and costs for disturbing the peace, which amount to $10. It is said that he had to put up pretty liberally to placate his wife and her daughters, deciding the land to them and promising to build a better house at once. The old fellow got the worst of it all around. He was bested in the fight, lost his house, staid in jail several days, had to put up everything he had and give bond for $200 to keep the peace for one year.

THE cool wave that came Saturday night has made every body feel that the old hymn which begins "I would not live alway," was written by a dyspeptic hypochondriac. The air is full of ozone and the sun's rays are soft and mellow.

THE special train advertised to run from Junction City to the debate at London next Saturday will not be put on nor will rates to that place be given on that day, said a dispatch to Mr. J. S. Rice from headquarters yesterday. Gen. Hardin will be on hand, however, as he will be at Nicholasville and the other appointments.

BURGLARY.—While Mr. J. B. McKinney and family were at church Sunday, his house was broken into and $6 stolen. A purse with $25 in it was not discovered by the rascals. A little negro boy, who was at the house, began to halloo, and one of the two men, who was a negro, shot at him. Several arrests have been made, but the right men have not yet been found. Two doors and the bureau had to be broken to secure the money, which was all that it seems was wanted, as nothing else was disturbed.

FOUNTAIN.—The Advocate says the fountain donated to Danville by Mrs. J. W. Gill as a memorial to her husband, has been placed in front of the courthouse. It is of bronze, about 14 feet in circumference at the base and 15 feet high, being surmounted by two gas lamps, which will be kept lighted. The gas company very generously offered to light one of the lamps free of charge. There are four openings to the fountain, two of them being drinking troughs for horses and the other for people.

IN regard to the Eminence meeting, Mr. J. P. Davis, of this place, who was present, says that from where he sat he observed no more disorder than is usual at an open air meeting and that he believes that would have subsided had Col. Bradley continued to speak. On the other hand Mr. John M. McRoberts, who was nearer, says the disorder was very great at times, indulged in entirely he thinks by youths who thought they were acting smart. He doesn't think that Col. Bradley could have made himself heard there, but that was no excuse for breaking the other engagements.

ELOPEMENT.—That there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip and the best laid plans of men, as well as mice, gang aft a-gley, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bright fully realize. To give their daughter, Miss Roberts, a good education, and at the same time keep her under their protecting care, they had at a great sacrifice to their feelings and comfort, arranged for Mrs. Bright to take her to Prof. Hubbard's school at Gallatin and stay with her as matron of the institution. The trunks had been packed and every thing prepared for their departure, but at the last moment the young lady gave them the slip and Friday night fled with the young sanctification preacher, Henry Mills, to Tennessee, where they were married. They have returned and are now at the home of the groom's parents. The bride, who is pretty and lovable, is just 17 and her husband but 19. She is the second daughter to elope, but if her marriage prove as happy as her sister's, it can never be said that she married in haste to repent at leisure. So here's hoping that it will and that every thing will be lovely.

A WORD FOR STANFORD.—Besides being one of the pleasantest places in the State to live in as well as the healthiest Stanford has more advantages than any town of its size that we know of. It is located in a very fertile region and its inhabitants are as a general thing in fair circumstances, contented and prosperous. Cast your eye over this list of advantages and if you are looking for a good place to locate, investigate and you will see that we have not only not stretched the blanket, but have hardly held it taut. We have seven churches, a college, an academy and a fine public school, each owning large and suitable buildings, two banks with a capital of $400,000, water works, electric lights, ice factory, three hotels, two railroads with eight passenger trains a day, a telegraph office, a semi-weekly newspaper with one of the best equipped offices in the State, an opera house with a seating capacity of 500, a steam flouring mill, which grinds 50 barrels a day, large lumber yard, public fountain for man and beast, six grocery and hardware stores, two confectioneries, furniture and undertaking house, three drug stores, four dry goods stores, three millineries, a merchant tailor and two agencies, two saddleries, two livery stables, one butcher shop and two barber shops.

We have 10 preachers, 12 lawyers, 10 doctors, three druggists and only a very few cafers.

SEVEN men who had sold horses at good prices to one Louis Land, who wore a G. A. R. hat and said he was buying them for the government, were here yesterday according to contract to deliver the animals, but Mr. Land was non est.

DEATHS.—There were two deaths in the Maywood neighborhood last week: Mr. George Bailey, aged about 65, and the father of a large family, died of flux, and Mr. Owsley Stephenson, a young married man, of typhoid fever. Both were buried the same day.

CAUGHT.—Mr. J. F. Moore who was up from Liberty yesterday says that the men who robbed John W. Whipp are in jail at Louisville. Their names are Creek, Newcomb and Head and they live at Bradleyville, in Casey. Mr. M. also told us that the Liberty fair stockholders lost $1.118 a share of $10 by the exhibition.
